

2004 Hall of Fame Inductee

James “Jamie” Allman

Class of 1981

James “Jamie” Allman is an award winning reporter for St. Louis’ KMOV-TV. He has won 13 Emmy Awards for investigative reporting, political reporting, live spot news coverage and writing.

As a member of the “News 4 St. Louis” team, Allman has covered a variety of stories ranging from the Great Flood of 1993 to political corruption to domestic violence. In addition to his in-depth “Allman Report” duties, he is also the host of the station’s weekly “Extra Edition” news show.

James
“Jamie”
Allman

Class of 1981

Prior to joining News 4, Allman worked in Madison, Wis. for WKOW-TV and WTDY Radio.

Allman’s work has generated other prestigious honors including six Edward R. Murrow Awards for investigative writing and reporting, two Missouri Broadcaster Awards for news reporting and an award from the Radio Television News Director’s Association for a series on domestic violence.

Allman has also been recognized for his commitment to the community with awards from the Missouri Presswomen, the St. Louis Jaycees and the Mental Health Association of Greater St. Louis.

He earned his Bachelor in Journalism from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.