

1999 Hall of Fame Inductee

Gerald Greenwald

Class of 1953

Gerald Greenwald graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree from Princeton University. He later earned a master's degree in economics from Wayne State University. Today, he is chairman and CEO of the UAL Corporation and United Airlines in Chicago, Illinois.

Greenwald is known as an astute businessman, but perhaps one of his best personal investments was in the University City High School "Believers' Program." This program, established in 1988, made it possible for 50 students (then 10 and 11 years old) to dream about college. The first Believers' graduating class left the high school in 1995. Those students were able to go on to Missouri public college or post-secondary trade schools approved by the Greenwald Foundation and the program coordinator, Gerald Sandweiss.

Presently, Greenwald serves on the boards of Honeywell, Inc.; Aetna; and Reynolds Metal, Inc.
